Leadership Key at Local High Schools, Especially at Graduation

Sulphur, LA – When asked what defines a leader, Cameron Communications President George Mack replied, “A leader comes in many shapes and sizes, but consistently makes others want to follow. A leader is someone that leads by example and is respectful of others and most importantly is efficiently productive.”

This definition of a leader rings true when describing the recipient of the 2010 Leadership Award from Cameron Communications. Each year, school counselors and officials are encouraged to choose a Senior student for this award that demonstrate leadership qualities, both in and out of the classroom. This year’s student not only shows exemplary leadership qualities, but is a source of motivation for peers and sets the bar for younger students. The award of $250 is meant to help this student on their chosen path for the future.

Jessica Oakman is the recipient of Sulphur High School’s 2010 Cameron Communications Leadership award. From the beginning of her high school career, Ms. Oakman has been very busy, and has never missed a day of school. She was involved in Student Council, Beta Club, French Club, Health Careers, Cyclones as a freshman, and she also attended AHEC for one summer. In addition to these activities, Jessica was also captain of the Twisters and Editor of the Yearbook Staff. Now that it is time to graduate, she finds herself with many other accolades in addition to the Cameron Communications 2010 Leadership Award. They include the “S” Award, “Who’s Sharpest” and she has also earned an Academic Endorsement Diploma. Cameron Communications wants to wish Jessica the best of luck in the future, which certainly is bright.
